News Recap & Peak Into The Week

-Nov. 4, 2024-

Reluctantly Turning the Seasonal Page...

Staring at a field of discarded pumpkins at her local trash disposal site, she feels the unmistakable change of seasons.

Of course, the return of cool weather and the "fall-back" time change make the transition even more apparent.

While she's never been one to keep up with swapping home decorations to mark the various seasonal milestones, she admires neighbors and friends who do it well. A close friend, for instance, has a set day when pumpkins are replaced with evergreen boughs and white lights. Meanwhile, she continues to stare at the fake spring flower wreath hanging on her front door, complete with abandoned bird nests.

At some point, she'll ease into fall and winter, but only when absolutely necessary. In the meantime, the forsythia and pansy trimmings will stay put until inspiration strikes. If past experience is any indication, it could take her a while. But then again, she asks herself: What's the hurry? After all, spring will be here soon enough.

Emergency repairs needed...

Town Closes Pfaff Center

Due to Brick Wall Concerns

Based on information shared by Town Administrator Kristine Treirweiler with Select Board and other town officials, the Pfaff Center will be closed on Monday, Nov. 4, "out of an abundance of caution" due to concerns about cracks in exterior brick walls.

Trierweiler emphasized, "Further closures of the building may be necessary as safety is our main priority."

Arrowstreet, a Boston-based architecture and design firm, has been reviewing the condition of each town building as part of an updated 20-year Facilities Evaluation and Capital Plan. The last such plan was created in 2017.

"A structural engineer was brought on-site to review the Pfaff. We just received notification from Arrowstreet that they recommend immediate repairs to the exterior building wall," stated Treirweiler.

Arrowstreet consultant Katherine Bubriski noted in an e-mail that the outdoor area adjacent to the building should not be used due to "imminent possibility of exterior debris." She also advised against using the inside during a storm or wind event.

As an interim step, Treirweiler explained the Medfield Afterschool Program (grade 4-5 site) will relocate to the Dale Street School temporarily until a work plan for the Pfaff can be finalized.

While no long-term relocation of the Parks & Recreation Department or its programs were noted by Treirweiler, the department cancelled its Friday, Nov. 1 "Kids Night Out" event.

The condition of the Pfaff Center building has been a town concern for many years. In the 2017 plan, the overall facility was deemed in "poor" condition, with deterioration of exterior walls documented.

As stated in the prior plan, "On the east side of the building, large horizontal cracking is occurring along the window lintel line, and where the wall transitions from structural bearing to the parapet wall...If the Town intends to continue use of this building, a full and comprehensive structural analysis should be performed..."

The 2017 plan also stated, "The Town must make a comprehensive decision as to what is the future of the building. The building systems are in so much need of upgrades, that if renovations are to be made, building codes will dictate complete building analysis and upgrades."

The Hannah Adams Pfaff building served as the town high school when it was first constructed in 1927 on land donated to Medfield by Pfaff, who died in 1915. Dale Street School, built in 1942, also sits on the property donated to the town specifically for municipal use.

Officials Warn of Fire Danger

as Regional Drought Continues

On Friday, Nov. 1, National Weather Service issued another "Red Flag" warning for all of Massachusetts, signaling high-risk fire conditions resulting from a combination of drought and dry brush contributing to "an unprecedented spike in outdoor fires across the state," as noted in the press release posted on the state website.

Dozens of recent wildfires from as far away as Canton and Salem have raised health and safety concerns among Medfield residents who reported strong smells of smoke and hazy skies. A helicopter was even spotted flying low over the town last week. It was believed to be part of firefighting efforts in other communities. (The state press release notes that Massachusetts Air National Guard has been using helicopters for water-drop operations.)

Medfield is among towns statewide whose residents are urged to be extra cautious, especially while the dry weather continues. Fire officials are asking residents to:

- * Abide by the statewide open-burning prohibition (now through January 14);
- * Refrain from outdoor cooking and heating since sparks and embers from fire pits and grills can ignite dry vegetation;
- * Use caution with power equipment, including lawnmowers, leaf blowers and all-terrain vehicles;
- * Carefully dispose of ashes from fireplaces and wood stoves by placing in a metal can, dousing with water, and covering with tight-fitting lid;
- * Extinguish smoking materials in a sturdy ashtray with water or sand (never toss cigarette butts, matches, or other smoking materials over the edge of a balcony, stub them out on stairs or railings, or toss them in dry vegetation or debris);
- * Monitor local fire conditions closely, and follow instructions from local public safety officials; and
- * Sign up for the local emergency alert system.

Residents can sign up for CivicReady Medfield Alerts via the town website \(click here\).

According to State Fire Marshal Jon Davine, "In the current fire weather environment, any significant fire could put people and property in danger. In fact, many of them have started with activity around the house, like outdoor cooking, and using lawn tractors and other power equipment."

First Street, a risk-assessment company, indicates that 37 percent of Medfield properties have some risk of being affected by wildfires over the next 30 years, and that the town overall has a "moderate risk."

Historically, places such as Rocky Woods and Noon Hill have experienced wildfires. In 2011, Town Historian Richard DeSorgher wrote a Patch article about the "Great Noon Hill Fire of 1896" that resulted in more than 200 acres of burned woodland.

Board of Health Discusses

Elm St. Septic, Other Updates

On Oct. 29, Board of Health held a public hearing on the application submitted by Matthew Smith of Dover Mills LLC for a septic system-related waiver for a proposed four-bedroom home at 48 Elm Street. The undeveloped lot is across from the Hannah Adams house in a wooded area adjacent to wetlands.

About 18 attendees were present for the hearing, with overall concerns expressed about the proximity of the proposed septic system in an environmentally sensitive area.

Questions also surfaced about the town stance to not extend sewer to the proposed home (and others on Elm Street), and the possible need to defer a Board of Health decision until Conservation Commission has held its own hearing and issued a determination.

Ultimately, realizing that modifications to the plan would be needed, Smith requested a Board of Health hearing continuation, tentatively scheduled for Dec. 3.

Even before the recent hearing, the property at 48 Elm St. had become controversial due to unauthorized tree and brush clearing in the wetlands area, with the potential for Conservation Commission enforcement actions. The applicant is also under an enforcement order for the removal of a section of old stone wall, against the Scenic Road bylaw.

In other Board of Health news:

- * The Charles River Health District shared services agreement between Medfield, Needham, Dover and Sherborn is now in effect with the last approval from Needham recently received. The grant-funded initiative is designed to be a mutually beneficial way of boosting effective and efficient public health services;
- * A public health nurse has been hired for the Charles River Health District to support Medfield and the four member communities;
- * Bridget Sweet, who has served as an independent Medfield Health Agent for about 15 years, announced she would be leaving the position in June due to moving out of state;
- * Proposed changes to tobacco regulations are still under review; and
- * The board entertained the idea of seeking out a Board of Health budget increase to provide full-time staffing of the administrative agent (instead of current part-time position), or to fund other help.

Police Add New Motorcycle

to Vehicle Mix for Officers

Medfield Police Department recently announced it has revived the department motorcycle unit with the arrival of a Harley-Davidson bike.

The new motorcycle was made possible through a $33,000 capital budget allocation approved at May 2024 town meeting.

According to the police department Facebook page, Sergeants Francis Thisse and William Crisafulli have been trained on using the motorcycle for Medfield traffic enforcement, community relations, special events and emergency response.

The department reported that the first Medfield motorcycle unit (historic town photo shown) was launched by Barney Chick, a World War I veteran and American Legion Commander. Chick was also founder of the Memorial Day tradition of placing flags on the graves of veterans buried at Vine Lake Cemetery.

News Briefs & Reminders...

- * The November issue of The Center at Medfield newsletter from Council on Aging has been posted to the town website. The issue provides details on upcoming events, programs and trips, as well as information on resources and services. Featured events include a Veteran's Dinner on Wednesday, Nov. 11 with a Nov. 4 deadline to sign up.
- * Medfield Transfer Station is now open on Sundays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. throughout November. And even though other non-emergency town operations will be closed on Friday, Nov. 29 (the day after Thanksgiving), the Transfer Station is traditionally open. The complete schedule can be found on the town website.
- * In related news, on Monday, Nov. 4 from 5 to 6 p.m., the Transfer Station and Recycling Committee is helping to demystify composting by sponsoring a workshop at Medfield Public Library in the meeting room. The workshop will explain composting, cover its importance, and provide practical tips for getting started, whether in the backyard or through other options. Featured workshop leaders are Lauren Beitelspacher and Jackie Alford. To support resident efforts, Earth Machine compost bins for backyard composting are also available for $35 each. Contact Barb Meyer via e-mail with "Compost Bin" in the subject line.
- * As previously reported, bills for town water and sewer service are scheduled to be mailed to Medfield customers on Nov. 4, 2024. The bills reflect May to October water and sewer use, and rate increases of 5 and 4 percent respectively, as approved by Medfield Board of Water and Sewerage on Sept. 16. The new rates, as of Oct. 1, can be found here. Questions about unusually high water/sewer bills can be directed to the Water and Sewer Division at (508) 906-3004 or via email.

- * School Building Committee plans to vote on site selection for a new or renovated/expanded Dale Street School at its Wednesday, Nov. 6 meeting that begins at 7 p.m. A public hearing will be held to ensure community members have an opportunity to provide input prior to the vote.
- * Medfield Helping Hands, an organization that recruits community volunteers to help residents in need, has shared that a meeting will be held at 2 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 8 at Medfield Public Library to rally winter support for a popular resident. More information here. Beyond this one need, anyone can sign up to join the local Lotsa Helping Hands list to learn about ways to support fellow residents in need.
- * At least two town boards have submitted feedback to Mass Housing regarding the proposed 40B project on former alpaca farm property at 86 Plain Street with 24 units planned. The Conservation Commission letter can be found here, while the Affordable Housing Trust letter is accessible here. Both boards expressed concerns about the potential damage to vernal pools and wetlands, the number of waivers requested by the developer, and negative impacts to town character. The Select Board was also due to submit a letter by the Oct. 30 deadline, but it has not yet been posted to the town website. Details on the project can be found here.
- * On Thursday, Nov. 14, Medfield School Committee expects to vote on a change in new school start and dismissal times for 2025-26 school year so that middle school and high school students can begin school nearly an hour later than currently. This change will necessitate elementary students starting school nearly a half hour earlier than now. Dismissal times will generally change to the same degree, with details available here. Research shows later start times provide student health and academic benefits for adolescents. However, the change is not without challenges, including the potential for significant morning traffic tie-ups, especially since Montrose School begins most days at 8 a.m. -- the same time now proposed for elementary schools, and amidst peak commuter traffic. Community members are encouraged to provide feedback on the school start-time change via e-mail to Medfield School Committee.
